

I Am Greene County

Somebody I'd like to meet someday is: Ralph Wade, world champion cattle auctioneer.

Hometown: Marshfield

Family: My parents, Mike and Teresa Joyce and my sister Misty.

Education: Missouri School of Auctioneering, I've spent a lifetime learning real estate, I have my industrial maintenance certificate and a Class A CDL.

One thing I never compromise on is: Honesty and integrity.

What do like best about being an auctioneer: The people you meet and the unique items that come through.

What is the most unusual thing you ever sold at an auction: A hat and sash from the Free Masons from the 1800's.

Why did you decide to go into auctioneering: My dad took me to a lot of auctions when I was a kid and as I watched some of the best auctioneers in our area, I knew what I wanted to do.

Last movie you saw: Sherlock Holmes.

Something interesting about you: I am currently running for Greene County Commission.

Favorite weekend activity: Spending time with friends and family.

The best advice I've ever received: Find what you love to do and try to make money at it, because if you love what you do you'll never work a day in your life.

The most important thing to remember about being an auctioneer is: To be upfront and honest with your costumer.
